A Grand Concert.

Raleigh is behind no city of its size in the country in a proper appreciation of all that is beautiful and attractive in art. Especially in this so in regard to music, and therefore it is with pleasure that we announce that Prof. Gonzalez an artist of a high order of merit of the Italian school, will give one of his brilliant entertainments at Metropolitan Hall, next Wednesday evening, for the benefit of St. John's (Catholic) Church. Prof. Gonzalez has given concerts in all the principal cities of the country, especially in the South, eliciting warm praise in artistic circles as well as from the masses and public generally. Added to a rare superior skill and execution as a violinist and organist, the Professor possesses a vocalistic power almost wonderful. The performance will consist of vocal solos, operatic and numerous selections. Those who have never heard the grandly beautiful music of the Catholic Church should by no means fail to avail themselves of this opportunity to hear some of it rendered by an artist who has spent the larger portion of his life in Rome in its study. In an extraordinary full programme will appear, stating admission fee, etc.

The Need of a Tannery.

Why is it that some enterprising capitalist does not establish a large tannery at Raleigh? There are millions in it beyond a doubt. Every year vast numbers of hides are shipped from this State to Baltimore and other cities, and there, with red-oak bark, which is also shipped from this State, made into red leather which is sold again at a handsome profit to our North Carolina people. A clear headed business man estimates that between 150,000 and 200,000 pounds of this leather is bought in Raleigh annually from Northern tanners who make it of North Carolina material. This leather should be made at home by all means, where we have everything necessary to make it except the enterprise.

This is what keeps North Carolina always in the rear. We ship our cotton North like wheat, and there have it made into fabrics which we then buy of Northern manufacturers.

Verily, we North Carolinians beat the world for sewing in order that others may reap.

Costs of Decisions of the Supreme Court, Summer Term, 1876.

The question of the presumption of a grant from adverse possession, has never been regarded as one to be decided upon natural presumptions as to fact, but upon a statute or arbitrary rule, established by the Legislature or by the courts, to prevent the uncertainty of titles which would arise, if the questions in each case, were to be determined by a jury, on their belief of the facts, derived from a consideration of all the circumstances in evidence. Adrian v. Little

If there has been an adverse possession for any time short of thirty years, it is not a circumstance to be submitted to a jury, but a question of fact, to be determined by the court, as evidence upon which they may find the fact of a grant. But on an adverse possession of thirty years, a jury is not at liberty to find that on fact, no grant ever issued. Ibid.

A plaintiff, in proving the title of the State, by an adverse possession of thirty years, may avail himself of any possession by others adverse to the State, although he may not be able to connect himself with them. Ibid.

to prove a possession of twenty years

SHERIDAN has not been ordered to Washington as reported some days ago. But the National Republican admits that a contingency may arise, when such a move would be the best one to make.

The following bit of doggerel is one of the best hits on the electoral controversy:
There is an elector named Cronin,
Who has set the Republicans groaning;
For he was elected
And that's the matter with Cronin.

This is from the New York Tribune, slightly altered.

We furnish elsewhere this morning an article on the march of despotism in this country, from the pen of a distinguished citizen of this State. His idea is that the country is ready to submit to usurpation. We think he is rather despondent as regards the temper of the people, though he may be quite right as to Grant's motives and rule of action. Grant possesses the traits which predominate in the nature of tyrants, and nothing but the fear of failure will restrain him from seeking to perpetuate his power, should the opportunity of doing so present itself on the 4th of March, next. The hope of the country is that before that eventful day arrives, the present difficulty will have been peaceably settled.

We direct attention to an article from Rev. T. H. Pritchard, on the interest of Wake Forest College, in the debt of the city of Raleigh. The fact is not generally known that Wake Forest College and parties living on the hill hold more than one-fourth of the city bonds. The failure of the city to pay the interest on this debt seriously embarrasses the College. Granting that the bonds are valid, Dr. Pritchard's plain, unvarnished statement of facts presents a strong argument for the funding of the city debt, or the payment of the interest on the bonds.

WILLIAM A. WHEELER, the late candidate for Vice-President, in a report to the House of Representatives something over two years ago conclusively proved the utter rascality and dishonesty of the individual members of the Louisiana Returning Board, particularly Wells, the chairman. John W. Bryce, of Hoboken, N. J., has known the Wells family a long time, and paints J. Madison Wells' character in this vigorous language: "Mat was the black sheep of the family, whose word no man willingly trusted, a fraudulent bankrupt and an unconvicted assassin." But Senator Sherman says that he is a highly honorable christian gentleman.

THERE is a great deal of suffering among the poor of this city, for wood and food—wood mainly. They need help; they must have it, or some of them will perish with the cold. This is no exaggeration; it is a hard fact. And this in a christian community. Will relief be withheld? or rather, will not the good and generous people of the city open their hearts and hands to the suffering poor? The Young Men's Christian Association are making every effort to supply the most urgent needs. They will call upon citizens to work for contributions to assist in paying for the wood which has been ordered. For charity's sake, let every well-to-do man whose heart is not made of stone, lend a helping hand in this noble, heaven-blessed work.

A NEW MOVEMENT.

There is no doubt that the Republicans have firmly concluded to have Hayes declared President in this State. The party is in this line. The leaders, the organs, the understrappers and the rank and file show a united front and are moving along the line of their purpose with unwavering step. That party is thoroughly organized, from the halls of Congress down to the confines of the remotest backwoods precinct. In these things—having a definite plan of action and a thoroughly organized body to carry it out, they have a most decided advantage over the Democratic party.

More than this, they will be supported by President Grant. He is undoubtedly determined to secure the inauguration of Hayes. He has the power to make his determination good, and to turn over to Hayes the army, the navy, and the public property of Washington.

To execute the programme laid down by Chandler, Morton and Edmunds, we believe the Republicans are ready to resort to force and violence. The will and the power which overcame South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana will not hesitate to cast out the Cronin vote and count in the Watts vote—which, as matters stand to day, is all that is necessary to secure the triumph of Hayes. If it shall become necessary to the successful execution of the Radical plan, it is almost certain that we will witness at Washington on the 4th of March a re-enactment of the scenes which were beheld in Columbia on the 25th of November.

The Democrats of the North are endeavoring to get up among the people such a show of resistance to the contemplated acts of despotism, as will cause the Republicans to call a halt. State Conventions of Tilden supporters are being called together to take action in the premises, and great public meetings will be held demanding that the will of the people shall be respected.

Any steps on the part of the Northern Democrats looking to forcible resistance to Hayes' inauguration, requires the support of the Democracy of the South. Without the moral and physical support of our people, the Northern Democracy are well-nigh powerless—at least, they would not go to the extent of armed resistance, unless they could rely upon our people to come to their aid.

Just here we reach one of the most delicate points in the electoral controversy. Shall the Democracy of the South stand by the Democracy of the North through thick and thin in this matter? Are we willing to follow their lead, be the consequences what they may? On this all-important question there is already a broad division of sentiment in our ranks. At a Democratic caucus in Washington some nights ago, as we learn from some of our Northern exchanges, Fernando Wood made a long speech and reproached Southern Democrats for want of zeal in the present emergency. He is reported as saying, "You sit with folded hands while time is slipping by. You have done nothing; you will do nothing; you are beaten." Much confusion followed, when Ben Hill threw in another firebrand. He is then pitched into Northern Democrats; said they had deceived their Southern friends once, but could not do it again; had elected them into war fifteen years ago, and then sent regiments of War Democrats down to whip them, and went on at some length in a very caustic vein. This Georgia statesman is the leading Southern advocate of the idea of submission to Hayes rather than war, and a friendly acceptance of his inauguration.

On the other hand, we find Mr. Alexander H. Stephens advocating a policy different from that enunciated by Mr. Hill. Mr. Stephens is opposed to any compromise. In a card published on the 16th inst., he distinctly advised against a friendly acceptance by the people of the South of the inauguration of Mr. Hayes.

I never have and never shall advise them (the southern people) or any other people to give a friendly acceptance of any administration inaugurated by the grossest frauds and most palpable usurpation. While I might not advise a forcible resistance to an administration thus inaugurated, yet I never could give it the sanction of my approval or friendly acceptance. For the overthrow of such a dynasty, I should rather appeal to the peaceful instrumentalities of the constitution. These are the legislative halls, the judiciary and the ballot box, the latter of which should ever be held as sacred as the ark of the covenant.

If we can place any reliance upon the Washington correspondents of the independent press of the North, a majority of the Southern Democratic Congressmen share in the view expressed by Mr. Hill in the recent published interview of him. It is distinctly avowed by the Southern Members and Senators are using all their influence with their party to prevent violent or irregular proceedings under any circumstances. "They do not want war," it is said, "under any circumstances, and declare openly to excitable Northern men that in any appeal to arms they must be counted out."

A similar division of sentiment exists among the Democratic newspapers of the South. Some say, "Let us stand by the Northern Democrats, war or no war." Others say, "Let us have Hayes rather than war," echoing the sentiment of Benjamin Franklin, that "there never was a good war, or an unjust peace." The Northern Republicans have seized promptly upon the advantage which this diversity of opinion among the Democrats affords, and are doing all in their power to widen the breach and thus emasculate the strength of the Northern Democracy. They have suddenly lowered "the bloody shirt" and placed in Mr. Hayes' hands an olive branch which he is to hold out to the South.

The Chicago Post, a bitter Republican leader, leads off in this new movement in the following piece:
The times are auspicious for peace and reconciliation in the politics of this country. The people of the South and the Republicans of the North have one point of cordial unity, and that is mutual hate for the rump end of the Democratic party as it was; that portion of it which aided the South into war, then left it to fight out the war, while it spent the time during which the North and South were engaged in holding peace conventions; talking a great deal, and doing nothing but talk. The golden opportunity is now given for the men who fought each other to become reconciled to each other, and to unite on a basis of equal political rights to all men and destruction to Northern Democratic snakes. All that needs to be done is for Ben Hill to keep on as he has begun, for his Southern friends to second his initiative promptly and unequivocally and in good faith. Every body wants peace. The Republicans of the North are ready to meet their brethren of the South on a square basis. Equality for all citizens before the law; that being granted and guaranteed, the affiliation can go on as of old. As for the offices what are they? A Southern man has his lineage for generations in the lead of the Stars and Stripes, is far better material for patriotic purposes than a Northern doughface, a political Judas, a "neutral" in time of war and an irreconcilable in time of peace. The momentous question is now, will the patriots of the North and the South use this great opportunity and make the centennial of our national independence the Year 1, of our national reconciliation?

And further on the Post says of the proposed friendly acceptance of the Hayes administration by the Southern people:
Here is the true basis for a solution of the political problem, and if Ben Hill will keep the lead he has taken in the matter, he will secure not only an act of oblivion for a record in the past, but an eternal monument to his honor in the hearts of his countrymen, North and South. Let the Hills, the Lamars, the Hamptons, the Stephenses of the South, approach their Republican brethren of the North with the frank, outspoken, and hearty declaration of good feeling and reconciliation. Peace, prosperity, and unity will be accomplished facts in one week. They will be met half-way, and if that is not enough, more than half way. The initiative, however, should be with them, but it will not require more than the slightest token to be accepted gladly as a harbinger of peace. Once taken the rest is easy. We shall have as a nation another era of good feeling. The olive branch will flourish. Good men, North and South, will band together for the mutual well-being and protection of the whole country. The political rights of every class will be carefully cared for. There will be no North or South. East or West, but one people, standing firm for the rights of man, the upbuilding of the nation, the dissemination of knowledge, the perpetuation of the heritage whose acquisition has been celebrated this centennial year. Will this year witness so grand a consummation? We shall see. Ben Hill has our thanks for ever inspiring the dream, if it shall prove to be but a dream.

These pieces indicate the inauguration of a movement entirely new. It is a transparent political trick—a bid for enough Southern Congressmen to elect Mr. Hayes, should the election be thrown into the House of Representatives. We should have none of it—basing our opinion on the present outlook. The South is impatient to decide this controversy. The Northern people must fight it out among themselves.

The true policy of the Northern Democrats is that which they are now pursuing—notifying the conspirators at Washington by public message and otherwise that the people will not submit to see Tilden and Hendricks counted out by force and fraud. Such a bold, defiant attitude on the part of our Northern friends is the only thing likely to bring the Washington conspirators to their senses, and checkmate the high-handed game of bluff which they are playing.

But the South should resist the appeal of the Northern Democrats as well as the blandishments of the Northern Republicans, and continue to sit like "patience on a monument," with folded hands and silent tongue.

YESTERDAY Governor Hampton formally demanded of Gov. Chandler the delivering of the great seal of the State, the public archives, property, &c. Chamberlain politely declined, as was expected. Hampton will now go before Congress with a memorial setting forth the whole case. We may congratulate the South Carolinians in proceeding thus far without bloodshed or violence. There is to-day a better prospect than ever for the final triumph of Hampton through peaceful agencies.

COMMENT OF THE PRESS.
There is a powerful current of public opinion in favor of the impeachment of President Grant. Albany Argus, Dem.
At the matter now stands the fact of the electoral college is irretrievably lost. Tilden has been constitutionally elected President of the United States. Boston Transcript, Ind.
Whichever course is finally adopted by the Republican Senate in reference to counting the electoral votes, the election of Tilden is now perfectly assured. Boston Post, Dem.
The returning board business will yet return to plague the Republicans. Mark that. Sooner or later the Democrats will get possession of the truth and they always improve on precedents.—Indianapolis News, Rep.

We are going to inaugurate the man who was elected to the Presidency, be it on that. If there are enough people to elect a candidate, there are enough to see him inaugurated. Washington Register, Dem.

We do not see how the vote of Oregon can be legally counted. The fact of disqualification being admitted, the vote of Oregon would be short of one, which would defeat an election by the people and throw it into the House of Representatives. Providence Press, Rep.

The "head-centers" of the Louisiana Returning Board—Messrs. Wells and Anderson—will know that we have no personal disrespect to them when we denounce the whole machinery of their board, and say that we consider it impossible that any good can come of it. We consider it a disgrace to the governmental machinery even of Louisiana; and an outrage upon the franchise of any people called forth or making any pretension to independence and decency—a burlesque in fact upon civilization itself. Homer (La.) Ind., Rep.

There is a large section of the Republican party of Massachusetts who would prefer that Mr. Hayes should not be declared President, so as to keep him out of the office to the declaration of the Returning Board of Louisiana. It is all the independent portion of the party, and a great many of the State. Mass. Register, Rep.

An intimate friend of the family of ex-Senator Gwin tells "Miss Grundy," of the N. Y. Graphic, that although the engagement between Miss Carrie Gwin and Gov. Tilden is not announced, she thinks it most probably a fact.

Alexander H. Stephens presents a picturesque appearance in Congress. He sits wrapped in an immense cloak, and wears a high hat two or three centuries old. A correspondent says it is a wonder how anything so small and sick and sorrowful as Mr. Stephens could get to Washington all the way from Georgia.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Thirty members of the South Carolina bayonet Legislature cannot write their own names.

The New York Tribune asserts that the Northern Democrats are only windy, and that under any circumstances they won't fight.

The net Democratic gain in the North on States of the last election over that of 1872 is 227,157. This is building up a vengeance.

The following is the oath Gov. Wade Hampton took:
"I recognize the Constitution and laws of the United States as supreme over the Constitution and laws of any State, and I agree to maintain them both."

After March 3rd Grant will have no more control over the army than Napoleon now has. Yet he deliberately declares his intention of using the army and navy to "see Hayes inaugurated."

The constitutional convention of New Hampshire, now in session, has under consideration an amendment to the organic law of the State allowing Roman Catholics to hold office. Up to this time they have been excluded on disability, although required to pay their due share of the taxes imposed.
